

Welcome to Decoder.....A quick and simple puzzle solving game for groups

Decoder is good a quick game and works well as a warm up game for groups or as a puzzle game for children.

This file contains four pages. This page explains the rules and gives the answers. The other three pages are the game itself. You should print one copy of the game (i.e. those three pages) for each person playing (or one per team if you want to play in teams).

It's usually best to play as individuals if you are a group of up to five people, if you have more people playing then split into teams of two.

The idea of the game is to find phrases that are hidden pictures. Here's an example:

The correct answer is "Jumping the Gun" because what you see is someone jumping a gun.

Give each player (or team) a copy of the game. Then gives them two minutes to decode all fifteen of the pictures, writing their answer beside each picture.

The person (or team) who correctly decodes the most images in the time is the winner. The correct answers are printed below so that players can be checked if necessary.
